S. L. ROTHAPFEL HOBNOBS WITH BOYHOOD GANG

MAKES HIS SECOND VISIT IN 43
YEARS TO STILLWATER HOME

ROXY TELLS UNITED PRESS OF HIS MANY EXPERIENCES
IN LIFE
By HILLIER KRIEGHBAUM
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Stillwater, Minn., March 13.—(U.P.)—S. L. Rothapfel, New York theatrical entertainer who built up "Roxy's Gang," came back today to the first gang he ever knew—his boyhood pals.

Most interested of all Stillwater citizens who welcomed him for his second visit in 43 years was his father, Gustav Rothapfel. Then there were his sand lot baseball companions and his first "audiences."

Roxy left here at the age of 12, later to try his hand at baseball and theatrical work in Minneapolis.

"The most exciting incident of those days was when a gang of boys raided an island in the St. Croix river as pirates," Roxy recalled. "One of the boys had a 22 rifle. He fired it or it went off somehow. One fellow was shot in the tummy. Then it was a mad scramble for shore. That was the most exciting thing that ever happened to me in Stillwater."

Roxy revealed the United Press that even as a boy he had managed a circus which toured Stillwater and neighboring farms showing its menagerie of geese and chickens.

"I got a cent a person for admission. And the day's receipts weren't bad either," he chuckled. "Oh, I sang some, too, but I've forgotten mostly about that."

His success in New York, where he has been for nearly 20 years, was climaxed by his unofficial appointment by Mayor James Walker as "mayor of the radio city."

Duly invested with his rights of office, Roxy announced the appointment of Mme. Schumann-Heink, world famous singer, who is appearing with him, as chief of police for the radio city.

"Mme. Schumann-Heink dotes over detective stories," Roxy explained. "Isn't that enough qualification for the appointment? Even a radio city must have its police chief."

Mme. Schumann-Heink accompanied Roxy on his homecoming trip.

"He's the greatest man in the world," she said. Roxy blushed. To quiet his embarrassment, she gave him a kiss. Cameras clicked. Roxy continued to blush as the singer said, "We'll have to do it again for the cameras." They did.

A sightseeing tour of his childhood haunts was to refresh Roxy's memory. J. H. Kollner was arranging the luncheon and welcome to the boy who made good.

Roxy will be shown a wooden Indian which is still standing in front of a cigar store and where when a boot-black he delighted to grab hold of the wooden head and swing himself.

Streets were flag bedecked and the Lowell Inn was decorated with a large "Welcome Home, Roxy."

"I helped introduce the moving pictures in Minneapolis," Roxy said. "They were still a novelty when the Lyceum became a regular picture house. Now there are houses on every corner—almost."

ABANDON HOPE SAVING FARMER FROM WELL CAVEIN

FIREMEN, FARMERS, DEPUTY SHERIFFS WORKED IN DULUTH VICINITY

GEORGE MARCINIAK, AGE 20, CAUGHT 40 FEET BELOW SURFACE

Duluth, Minn., March 13.—(U.P.)—Hope of rescuing George Marciniak, 20, alive was abandoned today while firemen, farmers and deputy sheriffs labored in vain to release him from a well cave-in.

The farm boy had been working in a well some 40 feet below the surface late yesterday when the dirt caved in on him. He cried for help but before he could be reached additional cave-ins had buried him.

Workers toiled throughout the night to rescue him but each time that they worked toward the boy, additional dirt fell in and prevented rescue. Fire department equipment was sent to the farm about ten miles outside of the city limits to furnish lighting for the workers.

This morning the men dug into the loose gravel with new energy, protected by wooden caissons. During the night, firemen reported, they were near the body only to be hampered by new cave-ins.

Firemen said there was no possibility that the boy would be found alive. They expected his body to be recovered before noon.

FRANCIS X. BUSHMAN HAS A VERY BUSY DAY

PICKING WIFE WEALTHY
ENOUGH TO SUPPORT HIM IN HOLLYWOOD STYLE

Chicago, March 13.—(U.P.)—This was Francis X. Bushman's busy day. He is picking a wife wealthy enough to support him in Hollywood style.

Thirty-three women—spinsters, widows and girls—are each willing to place their fortunes of varying size at his disposal to provide luxuries if he will just marry them.

Three of the applicants were booked for interviews during the day.

Bushman's offer to "marry for money" created a danger, however, that the motive—failure to obtain continued success in motion pictures—may be removed, for at least one film company offered to star the former matinee idol, providing its terms were agreeable.

"But after all," said Bushman, "it might be only temporary."

Nevertheless, he promised to confer with the film producers.

The women who wrote, wired or telephoned Bushman of their willingness to support a 47-year-old screen actor in return for his companionship, his guidance on world tours, and his advice for social success, were all put aside with promises of interviews—"if necessary." Some of them even stormed his dressing room at the Kedzie theatre. One group met him at the stage door.

"Ladies, ladies," said Bushman. "One at a time—please! I must ask you to write out your applications, giving all information about yourself, and enclose photographs."

"If wealth is the only qualification you require of a wife, why the photographs?" Bushman was asked.

"Ah," intoned Bushman in his precise English accent. "I might consider discounts to those who are charming and beautiful."

"Charms and beauty not considered, what minimum would you place on the fortune of your wife?"

"One million dollars," Bushman answered promptly. "That's if she has no other qualifications."

He was very mysterious about when he will make his decision, but one gathered that he wants to interview at least one "million dollar" applicant and weigh her charms and beauty—if any—against those of known charm and beauty with smaller fortunes.

State Prohibition Referendum is Dead Today as Far as 1931 Legislature is Concerned

HOUSE KILLS MEASURE BY A 67 TO 59 VOTE

DEBATE LASTED 5 HOURS, LONG-EST TIME TAKEN BY ANY SINGLE ISSUE

ARGUMENTS HEATED AS 19 LEG-ISLATORS SPOKE FOR OR AGAINST THE BILL

St. Paul, Minn., March 13.—The state prohibition referendum was dead today as far as the 1931 session of the legislature is concerned.

After a debate which lasted nearly five hours—the longest time taken by any single issue at this session, the house of representatives voted to kill a measure providing for a referendum by a margin of 67 to 59.

Arguments were heated as 19 legislators spoke for or against the bill. Several times personal bitterness was expressed by the speakers.

John J. McDonough, St. Paul, one of the sponsors of the measure, opened the arguments when the house began debate at 2:30 yesterday afternoon. He charged that prohibition had failed to maintain the promises made by those who advocated it and said it had created an "intolerable situation." He said the referendum would test the sentiment of the state and give the legislators a cross section of how the people felt.

Representative J. E. Odegard, Santiago, said the referendum would be illegal in Minnesota because this state made no provision for initiative or referendum. Odegard said the Wickersham report "unquestionably upheld" the prohibition amendment.

Representative R. J. McGhee, Virginia, said he would like to give his constituents a chance to voice their opinions on the issue so he could better represent their point of view. He was interrupted by Representative D. W. Johnson, Minneapolis, who asked if he favored submitting every controversial issue to the public. McGhee replied, "Certainly, not always."

Interrupted by Johnson who asked what he proposed to do, Representative John E. Regan, Mankato, replied, "I would suggest that we herd all the dogs together and drive them in the river."

Johnson replied, "Now that you've had your foolishness, how do you propose to remedy the situation?"

"That is what is proposed in submitting this question to the voters," Regan replied.

Mrs. Mabeth Hurd Paige, Minneapolis said that before prohibition a dozen drunks could be seen on Minneapolis streets, but that now "you can't see any."

"I haven't seen an intoxicated man in Minneapolis for years," she said.

Representative Otto Zellmer, Minneapolis, said her sex prevented Mrs. Paige from having "contacts that are essential to the true facts."

"There's no bad luck in that," he beamed. "I think we'll call them Josephine and John—those names total 13 letters."

St. Paul, Minn., March 13.—(U.P.)—Scattered snow and rain broke the monotony of summer-like weather in many sections of Minnesota today, but weather observers said it would not last.

Lower temperatures and cloudy skies will prevail for the next two days, however, the forecast said. Traces of snow were reported today from Moorhead and Duluth, while in the Canadian northwest more than an inch of snow had fallen.

FAVORITES OPPOSED BY AITKIN AND FALLS IN THE SEMI-FINALS

HOME TEAM SURVIVES GRUEL-LING CONTEST WITH STAPLES
IN SECOND OVERTIME

RANGERS TROUNCE WADENA, SHOWING FINE FORM; SHOULD OUTCLASS AITKIN

By the graces of dame fortune two favorites are able to enter the semi-finals of the 25th district basketball tournament tonight after near sensational upsets in the first round of the meet Thursday.

These two, Little Falls and Brainerd, whose chances were nearly snuffed out, are to meet in the 9:15 P. M. game.

Aitkin and Crosby-Ironton who had comparatively easy sailing in the opening games will meet in the 8 P. M. game.

The winners will enter the finals tomorrow night to decide the champions of the district and the opponents of Moorhead in the first game of the regional tourney here next Thursday evening.

Crosby-Ironton, veteran champions of former seasons, was the only quintet able to play a consistent game Thursday. The Rangers made quick work of Wadena.

Brainerd, nearly outsmarted by Staples, should find themselves tonight and should have no great trouble in taking Little Falls.

Crosby-Ironton will swamp Aitkin in the opener.

The scores Thursday were:
Aitkin, 20; Pequot, 13.
Little Falls, 32; Pine River, 26.
Crosby-Ironton, 38; Wadena, 15.
Brainerd, 23; Staples, 21.

Brainerd won in the second overtime period when Foster tossed in a neat overhanded shot. The regular playing period found the teams 19 up.

Workers toiled throughout the night to rescue him but each time that they worked toward the boy, additional dirt fell in and prevented rescue. Fire department equipment was sent to the farm about ten miles outside of the city limits to furnish lighting for the workers.

This morning the men dug into the loose gravel with new energy, protected by wooden caissons. During the night, firemen reported, they were near the body only to be hampered by new cave-ins.

Firemen said there was no possibility that the boy would be found alive. They expected his body to be recovered before noon.

FRANCIS X. BUSHMAN HAS A VERY BUSY DAY

PICKING WIFE WEALTHY ENOUGH TO SUPPORT HIM IN HOLLYWOOD STYLE

Chicago, March 13.—(U.P.)—This was Francis X. Bushman's busy day. He is picking a wife wealthy enough to support him in Hollywood style.

Thirty-three women—spinsters, widows and girls—are each willing to place their fortunes of varying size at his disposal to provide luxuries if he will just marry them.

Three of the applicants were booked for interviews during the day.

Bushman's offer to "marry for money" created a danger, however, that the motive failure to obtain continued success in motion pictures—may be removed, for at least one film company offered to star the former matinee idol, providing its terms were agreeable.

"But after all," said Bushman, "it might be only temporary."

Nevertheless, he promised to confer with the film producers.

The women who wrote, wired or telephoned Bushman of their willingness to support a 47-year-old screen actor in return for his companionship, his guidance on world tours, and his advice for social success, were all aside with promises of interviews—"if necessary."

Some of them even stormed his dressing room at the Kedzie theatre. One group met him at the stage door.

"Ladies, ladies," said Bushman. "One at a time—please! I must ask you to write out your applications, giving all information about yourself, and enclose photographs."

"If wealth is the only qualification you require of a wife, why the photographs?" Bushman was asked.

"Ah," intoned Bushman in his precise English accent. "I might consider discounts to those who are charming and beautiful."

"Charms and beauty not considered, what minimum would you place on the fortune of your wife?"

"One million dollars," Bushman answered promptly. "That's if she has no other qualifications."

He was very mysterious about when he will make his decision, but one gathered that he wants to interview at least one "million dollar" applicant and weigh her charms and beauty—if any—against those of known charm and beauty with smaller fortunes.

State Prohibition Referendum is Dead Today as Far as 1931 Legislature is Concerned

HOUSE KILLS MEASURE BY A 67 TO 59 VOTE

DEBATE LASTED 5 HOURS, LONGEST TIME TAKEN BY ANY SINGLE ISSUE

ARGUMENTS HEATED AS 19 LEGISLATORS SPOKE FOR OR AGAINST THE BILL

St. Paul, Minn., March 13.—The state prohibition referendum was dead today as far as the 1931 session of the legislature is concerned.

After a debate which lasted nearly five hours—the longest time taken by any single issue at this session, the house of representatives voted to kill a measure providing for a referendum by a margin of 67 to 59.

Arguments were heated as 19 legislators spoke for or against the bill. Several times personal bitterness was expressed by the speakers.

John J. McDonough, St. Paul, one of the sponsors of the measure, opened the arguments when the house began debate at 2:30 yesterday afternoon. He charged that prohibition had failed to maintain the promises made by those who advocated it and said it had created an "intolerable situation."

He said the referendum would test the sentiment of the state and give the legislators a cross section of how the people felt.

Representative J. E. Odegard, Santiago, said the referendum would be illegal in Minnesota because this state made no provision for initiative or referendum. Odegard said the Wickersham report "unquestionably upheld" the prohibition amendment.

Representative E. J. McGhee, Virginia, said he would like to give his constituents a chance to voice their opinions on the issue so he could better represent their point of view. He was interrupted by Representative D. W. Johnson, Minneapolis, who asked if he favored submitting every controversial issue to the public. McGhee replied, "Certainly, not always."

Interrupted by Johnson who asked what he proposed to do, Representative John E. Regan, Mankato, replied, "I would suggest that we herd all the dyes together and drive them in the river."

Johnson replied, "Now that you've had your foolishness, how do you propose to remedy the situation?"

"That is what is proposed in submitting this question to the voters," Regan replied.

Mrs. Mabeth Hurd Paige, Minneapolis, said that before prohibition a dozen drunks could be seen on Minneapolis streets, but that now "you can't see any."

"I haven't seen an intoxicated man in Minneapolis for years," she said.

Representative Otto Zellmer, Minneapolis, said her sex prevented Mrs. Paige from having "contacts that are essential to the true facts."

Representative O. K. Dahle, Spring

Twins Born Weigh Total of 13 Pounds; No Bad Luck on 13th

Indianapolis, Ind., March 13.—(U.P.)—Twins whose weights totaled 13 pounds were born today to Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Herbst, three minutes after midnight.

The boy weighed seven pounds and the girl six pounds, and Papa Herbst wasn't superstitious about it, he said.

"There's no bad luck in that," he beamed. "I think we'll call them Josephine and John—those names total 13 letters."

DOWNTOWN TULSA ROCKED BY BLAST NITROGLYCERIN

PLATE GLASS WINDOWS SHATTERED IN OKLAHOMA CITY BY EXPLOSION

TORPEDO COMPANY WAREHOUSE 7 MILES FROM CITY IS SCENE OF BLAST

Tulsa, Okla., March 13.—(U.P.)—Downtown Tulsa was rocked early today by an explosion of nitroglycerin in a torpedo company's warehouse two miles west of Redford, about seven miles southwest of here.

An 86-year-old man named Bridges, living near the warehouse, was cut about the face by flying glass when the concussion shattered his home. Several plate glass windows were shattered in the city by the explosion.

LOVE BORDERS ON INSANITY

DRIVES ANTHONY YOST, 35, TO MURDER MRS. ELLA MORRISON OF GREEN BAY, WIS.

Green Bay, Wis., March 13.—(U.P.)—Love bordering on insanity drove Anthony Yost, 35, a carpenter, to murder Mrs. Ella Morrison, 40, widowed mother of three children, with a butcher knife and then commit suicide by hanging, Coroner F. J. Hodek, said today.

Yost's body was found suspended from a rafter in the basement of his home last night after Mrs. Morrison's dying words named him as the man who had slashed her throat.

The carpenter, it was learned today, had been infatuated with the widowed mother after she had moved into the house next door to his on Emily street. Mrs. Morrison came to Green Bay from Rhinelander soon after her husband was killed in a fight with a neighbor there. She was believed to have rejected Yost's wooing.

DEFEAT DEATH IN TERRIFIC STORM

Buffeted about by mountainous waves in one of the worst storms on Lake Michigan in many years, the fifty-foot fishing tug Palmer of Kenosha, Wis., limped into the Chicago harbor under its own power late Sunday night. Capt. Alfred Shellswick and his crew of three battled the storm for forty hours before they made their way to safety. They are shown here on board their ice-encrusted craft, which left Kenosha, Wis., early Saturday morning and was caught in the blizzard, which prevented its return to home port.

$246 RULED ENOUGH COMPENSATION FOR WOMAN LOSING HAIR

St. Paul, March 13.—(U.P.)—The Minnesota state supreme court today ruled that $246 is sufficient compensation to a woman for loss of her hair.

Mrs. Pollie M. Drake of Oronoco, Minn., who became bald as a result of injuries allegedly received while receiving a permanent wave, will receive that amount.

The $246 must be paid by Ida A. Connelly, a beauty shop operator. Mrs. Drake sued for $10,000 damages and appealed when the Ramsey county district court awarded her the smaller sum. The supreme court upheld the district court.

HOME TEAM SURVIVES GRUELING CONTEST WITH STAPLES IN SECOND OVERTIME

RANGERS TROUNCE WADENA, SHOWING FINE FORM; SHOULD OUTCLASS AITKIN

By the graces of dame fortune two favorites are able to enter the semi-finals of the 25th district basketball tournament tonight after near sensational upsets in the first round of the meet Thursday.

These two, Little Falls and Brainerd, whose chances were nearly snuffed out, are to meet in the 9:15 P. M. game.

Aitkin and Crosby-Ironton who had comparatively easy sailing in the opening games will meet in the 8 P. M. game.

The winners will enter the finals tomorrow night to decide the champions of the district and the opponents of Moorhead in the first game of the regional tourney here next Thursday evening.

Crosby-Ironton, veteran champions of former seasons, was the only quintet able to play a consistent game Thursday. The Rangers made quick work of Wadena.

Brainerd, nearly outsmarted by Staples, should find themselves tonight and should have no great trouble in taking Little Falls.

Crosby-Ironton will swamp Aitkin in the opener.

The scores Thursday were: Aitkin, 20; Pequot, 13.

Little Falls, 32; Pine River, 26. Crosby-Ironton, 38; Wadena, 15. Brainerd, 23; Staples, 21.

Brainerd won in the second overtime period when Foster tossed in a neat overhanded shot. The regular playing period found the teams 19 up. In the first overtime period of three minutes' play, Tevlin of Staples found the hoop and Foster came back to even the count and force the second overtime.

Staples showed good strategy in its type of play against Brainerd. The former played a semi-stall game from the opening whistle, contenting themselves for three quarters to hold the score down as low as they possibly could. Their aim was to keep the ball out of Brainerd's hands as long as they could, then enter the fourth quarter, play a bangup type of game, taking their chances on sinking in a few baskets. The strategy almost spelled defeat for Brainerd. A ball shot high in the air from near center two seconds before the first overtime period closed hit the Brainerd hoop, hesitated and then jumped out. Brainerd fans went sick. It would have been a calamity for them if it had found its mark.

Brainerd found it difficult to adjust themselves to the type of play which Staples introduced. Coach Bill Dammann's men, trained to cope with the speed of Crosby-Ironton, were forced to adapt themselves to just the opposite.

With the Staples game out of their system, Brainerd will now go through to the championship, if the dope runs smooth.

Little Falls, their opponents tonight, cannot stop Brainerd. Playing a hard game which left them near worn out, the downriver boys came through to win from Pine River, the surprise quintet of the meet, in a sensational windup.

On the basis of Thursday's play, Aitkin will only give the Rangers a mild workout tonight.

Coach Woodcock's string took advantage of Wadena's weakness by saving their strength for more rigorous games to follow. They held in their long shots, driving in under the basket and scoring at will. Perpich, the staunch center, and Keeler, forward, found the hoop for a total of 23 points.

Crosby-Ironton has many good baskets in their system. Perpich and Keeler have had their big night in scoring. Tonight the entire team will carry the brunt of the scoring and Saturday night it is safe to say Olson, Dobravich, Petraborg and Zauhar will have something to say as to who sinks the cowhide.

Brainerd was worried from many angles last night. In the first place they found the score only 4 to 2 in their favor at the close of the first quarter and then only 9 to 8 in their favor at the half. To make it worse, Marshall, the backbone, had three personal fouls called on him in the first half and was forced to play a conservative game for the remainder to prevent him from going out of the game on four personal fouls.

In the first minute of play Barrows hurt his ankle and was relieved by Peterson. Card was called for holding Bob Wygle as the wily Brainerd forward was coming under the basket. Wygle sunk the two free throws. Marshall was called for blocking Card, the latter making one. Halliday fouled Marshall who missed two. Bob Wygle charged Halliday who made one. Probstle blocked Wygle who missed two. Bob Wygle and Foster carried the ball down the floor, passed

LOWER TEMPERATURES AND CLOUDY SKIES TO PREVAIL SEVERAL DAYS

St. Paul, Minn., March 13.—(U.P.)—Scattered snow and rain broke the monotony of summer-like weather in many sections of Minnesota today, but weather observers said it would not last.

Lower temperatures and cloudy skies will prevail for the next two days, however, the forecast said. Traces of snow were reported today from Moorhead and Duluth, while in the Canadian northwest more than an inch of snow had fallen.

Williston, N. D., was one of the coldest places in the United States today with a temperature of zero. Devils Lake, N. D., and Bismarck had 22 and 14 above respectively.

It was 36 above in St. Paul, 38 above in Duluth and 36 above in Moorhead. Huron, S. D., had 26 above and Pierre, S. D., 24 above.

FRIDAY, MARCH 13, 1931

Minnesota Taxpayers Association

THE Minnesota Taxpayers Association has sent out a 25-page statement and placed it in the hands of every member of the State Legislature.

It contains the recommendations and resolutions adopted at the association's annual meeting held in St. Paul on February 27, this year. The statement says in part:

"The acuteness of tax conditions is now apparently admitted by the officialdom of this state. The Minnesota Taxpayers Association has tried for five years to direct attention to this condition which has steadily been growing worse. The contents of the statement are not born of a hasty conversion to the cause of the taxpayer but of years of experience and effort in such a cause.

"If public opinion can be unanimous, it is unanimous that present tax burdens must be lightened and in particular, that real estate should be relieved.

"The danger is that attempts to apply remedies will be made without a comprehensive understanding of the entire problem. Problems of taxation are divided broadly into expenditure and income. The growth of this expenditure control problem in other states is of outstanding significance. It is not new or untried. It was offered to the Minnesota Legislature four years ago. A combination of interests blocked its passage. The poor taxpayer knows only that the reduction should be made, but he is often unable to show where or how.

"The statement is often heard that real estate bears 80 per cent of the taxes. It should be remembered that taxes are levied by the Federal Government, the State Government and the Local Government such as Counties, Towns, School Districts, Cities and Villages. Federal Government takes about 35 per cent, the State Government 15 per cent, and the Local Governments about 50 per cent."

The association does not take kindly to the proposed imposition of a state income tax.

Another Interest at Stake

THE Twin Cities can wait nothing fairer than the statement of Representative E. P. Scallon Monday concerning the position of his part of the State on the sewage disposal question, says the St. Paul Dispatch. As matters stand now, the Twin Cities in effect are asking the Northern Minnesota communities to forego immediate and complete restoration of lake levels because public health here may depend upon the tapping of those reservoirs at low water periods in the river.

Mr. Scallon's entirely sound answer is that his part of the State recognizes the claims upon its patience arising from the necessity of guarding the health of the Twin Cities, but that in return the Twin Cities are obliged to take immediate steps for correcting the condition of the river which is responsible for the existence of such a menace. St. Paul and Minneapolis can not expect sacrifices to be made in their behalf, unless they are willing to make some sacrifices themselves.

It has been assumed that down river communities are the ones primarily affected outside the metropolitan area by sewage conditions here. The up river communities, however, have at least an equal, though different interest. They are fortunate, along with the Twin Cities and the rest of the State, in being able to supply Mr. Scallon as chairman of the House Drainage Committee, where his neutrality as between St. Paul and Minneapolis has permitted him to work with great effectiveness toward insuring that action in the interests of all will be taken at this session.

A Very Nice Courtesy

THE Brainerd Musical club is showing very nice courtesy to the farm women of the district. At their luncheon which the club has set at the Ransford hotel Saturday preceding the concert, Mrs. A. F. Claus and Mrs. John Gibson have been invited to speak.

Mrs. Claus won northwest honors as a home maker. She was given the title and medal conferred on "Master Farm Home Maker" at the St. Paul convention sponsored by a leading farm journal. She was county home chairman last year heading 42 groups of women operating under prescribed home work. She is a boys' and girls' 4-H club leader of St. Mathias and a director of the Crow Wing County Farm Bureau.

Mrs. Gibson is a leader in Gilbert Lake home projects and also a 4-H club leader and a director of the Crow Wing County Farm Bureau. She is in charge of this year's 4-H club booth of Crow Wing county at the State Fair.

Mrs. Claus will speak on the topic of "The Master Home Maker." Mrs. Gibson will speak on "Boys' and Girls' Club Work." These farm women are good speakers and it is needless to say that they have had valuable experience in the spheres they will talk about.

The Rotary and Lions clubs on many occasions ask their farmer friends to luncheon and to speak and the contact does much to cement relations between town and countryside. In the same manner women of the city and country are becoming better acquainted at the Brainerd Musical club and sharing viewpoints not otherwise possible.

Tournament Arrangements

TOURNAMENT arrangements last night were fairly good with the exception that some of our local people failed to observe instructions plainly marked on the walls of the gymnasium.

A misunderstanding apparently existed last night concerning the reserved seat section.

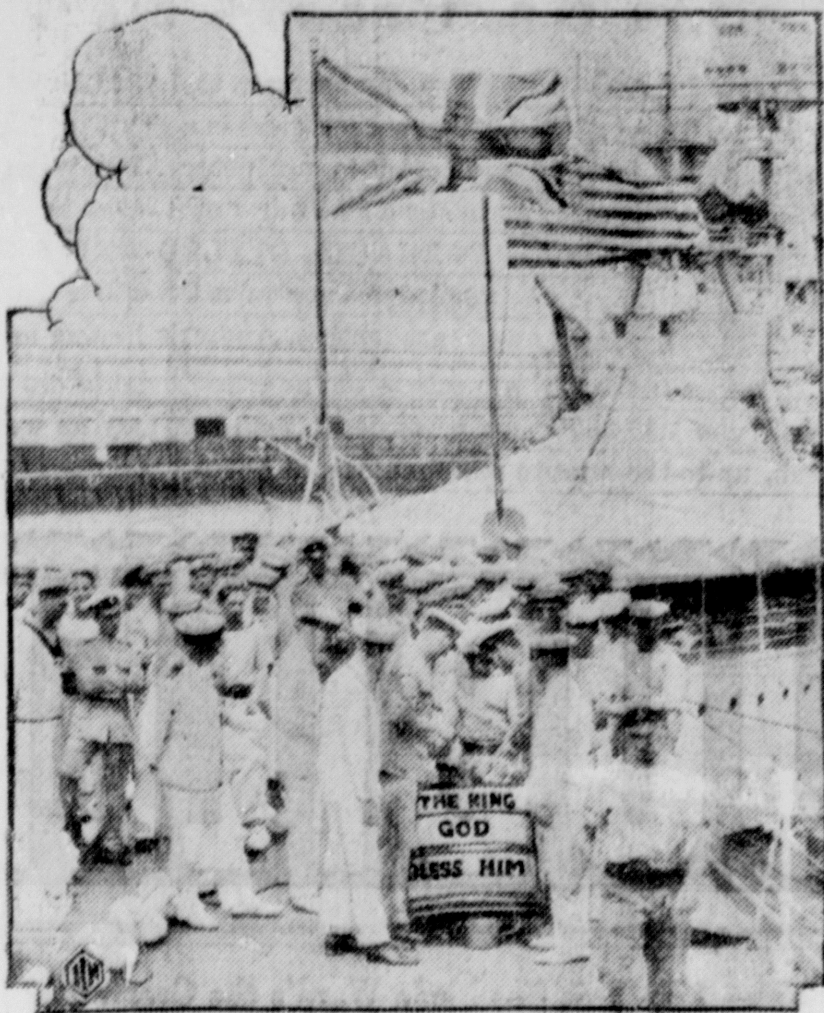

It was not intended to be a "local matter," as the tournament is not a local affair, but an organization of 16 schools.

The district committee authorized the reserved section for a special group from the 16 schools: first, school boards; second, visiting superintendents and high school principals; third, visiting coaches; fourth, the actual officials of the games, timekeepers, scorers, a few press representatives and the substitute players of the teams engaged. The reserved section is not a "help yourself" proposition.

The visitors must be considered, and 16 towns are officially a part of the tournament.

Our local people are requested to let the official ushers handle the reserved seat section.

Militiamen Guard $50,000 Contest Mail

THE thousands of letters received in the $50,000 Camel cigarette contest, advertised in newspapers from coast to coast, were guarded in the same manner as huge gold shipments. Photograph shows contest mail being loaded into an armored truck at the Winston-Salem, N. C., postoffice under guard for transportation to the offices of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company. Charles Dana Gibson, noted artist and publisher of Life, Ray Long, president of International Magazine Company and Editor of Cosmopolitan Magazine, and Roy Howard, chairman of the board of the Scripps-Howard newspapers, were judges of the contest which called for answers to the question, "What recent change has been made in the wrapping of the Camel package containing twenty cigarettes and what are its advantages to the smoker?" The huge response to the contest announcements proved anew the great responsiveness of the public to newspaper advertising.

DYNAMITE USED TO CHECK RUSH OF MOUNTAIN SLIDE

100 ACRES OF EARTH AND ROCKS STRIKE 2 HAMLETS NEAR CHAMBERY, FRANCE

NO CASUALTIES, INHABITANTS DRIVE CATTLE OUT AND CARRY BELONGINGS AWAY

Chambery, France, March 13.—(AP)—Dynamite charges were laid today in the path of a great mountain landslide which threatened to destroy several villages in the Savoie valley.

The slide of close to 100 acres of earth and rocks already has demolished two small hamlets from which the inhabitants escaped, driving their cattle and carrying such personal belongings as they could move. There were no casualties.

The mass of earth was moving at the rate of 120 feet a minute when it started down the mountainside, crushing trees and farm houses in its path, but it had slowed down to a pace of 300 feet an hour by the time engineers reached the scene and began laying dynamite to turn the slide away from the threatened villages.

One of the largest villages in danger was Les Granges, from which the population departed carrying bundles and driving livestock. About 125 persons spent the night in the open as a result of the slide.

The villages of Villard, Martinon, Montaimont and Naisons Page, having populations of from 100 to 200, also were in danger, although the lessening of the roaring and cracking noises accompanying the slide when it started was believed to have indicated that the greatest danger was past.

"NEW ENERGY FOR WORK AND LIVING"

"There's something about this Sargon that fills a man with new energy for working and living," recently stated Carl Ellingson, 2208

McKinley Ave., Milwaukee. "Nearly everything I ate distressed me; I'd lie awake half the night, and was in a very nervous and rundown condition. Three bottles of Sargon overcame all my ailments. I've got a fine appetite, nothing I eat disagrees with me, my nerves are steady, and I never felt better. Sargon Pills don't gripe, nauseate or weaken like other laxatives, and their benefits are lasting. The two medicines together certainly make a remarkable treatment."

Minnesota Taxpayers Association

THE Minnesota Taxpayers Association has sent out a 25-page statement and placed it in the hands of every member of the State Legislature.

It contains the recommendations and resolutions adopted at the association's annual meeting held in St. Paul on February 27, this year. The statement says in part:

"The acuteness of tax conditions is now apparently admitted by the officialdom of this state. The Minnesota Taxpayers Association has tried for five years to direct attention to this condition which has steadily been growing worse. The contents of the statement are not born of a hasty conversion to the cause of the taxpayer but of years of experience and effort in such a cause.

"If public opinion can be unanimous, it is unanimous that present tax burdens must be lightened and in particular, that real estate should be relieved.

"The danger is that attempts to apply remedies will be made without a comprehensive understanding of the entire problem. Problems of taxation are divided broadly into expenditure and income. DYNAMITE USED TO CHECK RUSH OF MOUNTAIN SLIDE

NO CASUALTIES, INHABITANTS DRIVE CATTLE OUT AND CARRY BELONGINGS AWAY

Chambery, France, March 13.—(AP)—Dynamite charges were laid today in the path of a great mountain landslide which threatened to destroy several villages in the Savoy valley.

The slide of close to 100 acres of earth and rocks already has demolished two small hamlets from which the inhabitants escaped, driving their cattle and carrying such personal belongings as they could move. There were no casualties.

The mass of earth was moving at the rate of 120 feet a minute when it started down the mountainside, crushing trees and farm houses in its path, but it had slowed down to a pace of 300 feet an hour by the time engineers reached the scene and began laying dynamite to turn the slide away from the threatened villages.

One of the largest villages in danger was Les Granges, from which the population departed carrying bundles and driving livestock. About 125 persons spent the night in the open as a result of the slide.

The villages of Villard, Martignon, Montaimont and Naisons Page, having populations of from 100 to 200, also were in danger, although the lessening of the roaring and cracking noises accompanying the slide when it started was believed to have indicated that the greatest danger was past.

"NEW ENERGY FOR WORK AND LIVING"

"There's something about this Sargon that fills a man with new energy for working and living," recently stated Carl Ellingson, 2208

McKinley Ave., Milwaukee. "Nearly everything I ate distressed me; I'd lie awake half the night, and was in a very nervous and rundown condition. Three bottles of Sargon overcame all my ailments. I've got a fine appetite, nothing I eat disagrees with me, my nerves are steady, and I never feel better. Sargon Pills don't gripe, nauseate or weaken like other laxatives, and their benefits are lasting. The two medicines together certainly make a remarkable treatment."

Pine River Fight!

Trailing into the last quarter on the low end of the score, Little Falls concentrated all its forces in the line of attack in the closing minutes of the battle in the afternoon play to win from the fighting Pine River quintet by the score of 32 to 26.

Pine River presented the big surprise of the tournament to date. Half the team stalled throughout the final quarter the boys would have won. They fought every inch of the way and on the play deserved a win.

Christensen, rangy center for Pine River, tipped in five field goals and two free throws. His scoring power, however, was offset by Newman, the Little Falls forward.

ABILITIES AS BOXING MENACE IN GOOD STEAD

FAKING WORK AND DEVASTATING PUNCH HELPED GODFREY IN BOXING

WINS HIS BOUT OVER HOLLANDER TOMMY DRAAK WITH "MYSTERY" HOLD

By DIXON STEWART
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, March 13.—George Godfrey, erstwhile "black menace of boxing," has metamorphosed into wrestling's first "black hope" and promises to become a profitable playmate for Jimmy London, Gus Sonnenberg and their fellow pachyderms.

Paradoxically, the very qualities which made the 260-pound negro a boxing menace—faking ability and a devastating punch—are the factors which assure him wrestling success.

Big George cannot wrestle but that is not a serious handicap. After a Mexican tour in which he scored 14 consecutive victories in as many cities over his chauffeur who appeared under 14 different names, Godfrey made his United States debut in Newark, N. J., Monday. He won his bout with a "mystery" hold, which consisted chiefly of a right hook to the jaw, and was booked immediately to appear at Jersey City last night.

The Jersey City show assured Godfrey of offers from one of the big wrestling trusts. Whereas such stars as London, McMillan, Sonnenberg and Don George never have been able to draw more than 1,100 fans at Jersey City, Godfrey's appearance resulted in a sell-out of the 6,000 capacity arena and more than 5,000 fans were turned away.

Godfrey won his match. In fact he won two matches. It wouldn't be good business to have him defeated. The first match went 15 minutes and when Tommy Draak, 220-pound Hollander, found that Godfrey lacked sufficient knowledge of wrestling holds to make the match look interesting he enlisted proceedings by swinging a series of open-handed slaps to the negro's face.

Godfrey retaliated with a right cross to the jaw and Draak sailed over the ropes and into the laps of third row spectators. He claimed foul and refused to continue. The fans wanted more so the promoters produced a second victim, an unknown introduced as Jack Arnold.

Arnold lasted three minutes. The fact that Godfrey's meagre knowledge of wrestling proved sufficient to win without the necessity of using boxing methods gave rise to the suspicion that Arnold may be the multi-named chauffeur.

Wrestling promoters welcome Godfrey's entrance into the game. Just at present both the London-McMillan and George-Sonnenberg circuits need new talent. Fans are tired of the "ring-around-the-rosy" competition and the trust leaders have been seeking a new challenger. If Godfrey lines up with one of the trusts he is virtually certain to be built up to a championship match.

SPORTS KAYOES

By "HAPPY"

Now that Aitkin, Little Falls and Brainerd have each turned in a bad game, and thanks to Old Lady Luck, are still in the tourney, the fans may see plenty of good basketball from these teams yet. Crosby-Ironton was in its stride yesterday, and no doubt will continue to play bang-up ball, so anything may happen tonight and tomorrow evening.

Elmer Foster did all his field goal scoring in the overtime periods last evening. That was certainly the time for Elmer to get those field goals out of his system!

This is the first year of basketball for Arnold Peterson of Staples, but he scored more than half of the Staples points last evening. The little blonde fellow scored three pretty field goals in a row last evening to give Staples a rather commanding lead in the third quarter. He was all that Brainerd cared to handle last evening and we hate to think of the worry he is going to cause Brainerd players in years to come as he improves with experience.

We may be wrong, but we think that Aitkin will give Crosby-Ironton plenty to worry about tonight. Coach Hall's boys are capable of a lot better basketball than they played against Pequot yesterday afternoon.

Andew, Wadena center, found the hoop for field goals five times last night, but the other boys just didn't seem to connect. Olin, who usually drops several in from long range, just had some hard luck.

Pine River did its "darndest" yesterday afternoon and it was almost enough to upset Little Falls. The Pine River center, Christensen, although not a polished floor man, used his height to good advantage and dropped in five field goals. Like several other men who showed up well yesterday, Christensen is playing his first year of basketball, and may turn into an exceptionally fine player.

Keeler and Perpich fattened their box score records last night with a number of shots from right under the basket. The long range shots of Olson and Dobravich weren't called into action.

P-belle, Staples guard, turned in a whirlwind game last evening. His guarding had a lot to do with the breaking up of the Brainerd attack.

Courtney Crockett of Pequot and Nickander of Aitkin were the big scorers of the Pequot-Aitkin game. Every other player on the floor took plenty of shots but they just couldn't seem to make that ball go through the hoop. The Pequot attack centered too much around Crockett while the rest of the Aitkin team simply could not seem to click as it should.

We wish that we had a little of the coolness that Bill Damman possesses. A more trying situation could hardly come up in a basketball game and yet it didn't seem to ruffle Bill's composure in the slightest.

The Staples pep band had it all over the other two bands of music-makers. The Staples band was well balanced and is a real credit to the Todd county school.

PHILADELPHIAN EXPECTED TO MAKE GREATEST FIGHT OF HIS CAREER AT NEW YORK

By L. S. CAMERON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, March 13.—(UP)—With a return bout against Jack Sharkey providing an added incentive for victory, Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia is expected to make the greatest fight of his career in his 10-round bout with Ernie Schaaf of Boston at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Loughran has had a difficult struggle up the comeback trail since his fourth round knockout by Sharkey in September, 1929, and is at the peak of condition for the final hurdle.

Schaaf is Sharkey's portage and Sharkey has promised that he will meet Loughran at New York this summer if the Philadelphian gets past Schaaf tonight.

Sharkey's announcement transformed the Loughran-Schaaf contest from an apparently unimportant event into a possible semi-final in the New York commission's heavyweight title series. The New York commission previously has suspended Max Schmeling, who was given the title by commission vote, Young Stribling, Primo Carnera, Mickey Walker and most of the other ranking contenders and is on record as ready to recognize the winner of a bout between Sharkey and a worthy contender as the world's champion.

Loughran is confident that he can defeat both Schaaf and Sharkey, and becoming a rival champion to the Stribling-Schmeling survivor.

"A lucky punch put me out of the race when I met Sharkey," said

Loughran. "That won

Franks replaced Bob Wyle in the second, and Marshall scored after Foster and Gerry Wyle had carried the ball down the length of the floor. Schuety blocked Peterson who scored one. Brainerd took time out when Foster hurt his ankle. Gerry Wyle held Peterson as he was about to shoot and was penalized. Peterson missed two. Franks scored two free throws, Halliday fouling him. Peterson sunk a long shot for the first field goal for Staples. Tevlin clipped Foster, the latter scoring one. Peterson missed, Marshall being tagged. Marshall had his third personal called on him for blocking Halliday. The latter made one. Probstle scored for Staples and White went into the game for Marshall. The half ended with Brainerd 9 to 8 in the lead.

Staples jumped into the lead early in the second half when Probstle and Peterson each scored. Bob Wyle got a free throw and made it, Probstle being the offender. He hung up another free throw when Barrows body checked him. Peterson scored for Staples under the basket. Peterson scored again for Staples making the score 16 to 10 in their favor. Marshall went back in the game, replacing White. Larson substituted Foster. Gerry Wyle scored on a play under the cage. Halliday missed a free throw, Gerry being singled out. Brainerd took time out. Bob Wyle sneaked his way through the Staples defense, dribbled under and scored. Staples took time out. Marshall lead the Brainerd attack for the tying basket and sunk it from a side shot. The terms were even up at the close of the third quarter, 16-16.

The teams fought desperately from the first whistle in the last quarter. Bob Wyle scored after he took the ball from his brother's tip-off near the Staples net. Probstle missed one and scored one on free throws. Foster went in for Bob Wyle. Probstle fouled Gerry who scored one. Franks went in for Larson. Peterson scored for Staples to tie the score.

Intense excitement was felt by each of the 2,000 fans as the teams fought the overtime periods.

Tevlin fouled Marshall at the start of the overtime. Marshall missed. Tevlin then scored for Staples after the tip-off. Elmer Foster worked his way through to score. The second overtime period, the score 21 to 21.

Larson replaced Franks for Brainerd in the second overtime period. Elmer Foster sunk the winning basket for Brainerd and the team played a semi-final until the gun cracked.

All doubt as to Crosby-Ironton's strength for the tournament was dispelled quickly by witness of the C-I vs. Wadena game. Crosby-Ironton romped through the game in its old confident style. They piled up a lead of 12 to 2 at the quarter, closed the half 18 to 9 in the lead, were 26 to 13 ahead in the third and scored 12 points to Wadena's two in the last quarter.

Pine River Fights!
Trailing into the last quarter on the low end of the score, Little Falls concentrated all its forces in the line of attack in the closing minutes of the battle in the afternoon play to win from the fighting Pine River quintet by the score of 32 to 26.

Pine River presented the big surprise of the tournament to date. Had the team stalled throughout the final quarter the boys would have won. They fought every inch of the way and on the play deserved a win.

Christensen, rangy center for Pine River, tipped in five field goals and two free throws. His scoring power,

Postpone Bill on Regulating Solicitors and Canvassers

St. Paul, March 12.—(UP)—After arguing for more than two hours today, the house committee on commerce and retail trade postponed indefinitely a bill permitting cities and villages to regulate solicitors and canvassers.

The bill, introduced by Rep. Andrew Finster, Kenyon, would empower municipalities to control solicitors and canvassers in the same manner that peddlers and hawkers are licensed and regulated.

Representatives of grocers' associations, including John J. Ryan of the Minnesota Retail Grocers' association, argued in favor of the bill.

FAKING WORK AND DEVASTATING PUNCH HELPED GODFREY IN BOXING

WINS HIS BOUT OVER HOLLANDER TOMMY DRAAK WITH 'MYSTERY' HOLD

By DIXON STEWART
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, March 13.—George Godfrey, erstwhile "black menace of boxing," has metamorphosed into wrestling's first "black hope" and promises to become a profitable playmate for Jimmy London, Gus Sonnenberg and their fellow pachyderms.

Paradoxically, the very qualities which made the 260-pound negro a boxing menace—faking ability and a devastating punch—are the factors which assure him wrestling success.

Big George cannot wrestle but that is not a serious handicap. After a Mexican tour in which he scored 14 consecutive victories in as many cities over his chauffeur who appeared under 14 different names, Godfrey made his United States debut in Newark, N. J., Monday. He won his bout with a "mystery" hold, which consisted chiefly of a right hook to the jaw, and was booked immediately to appear at Jersey City last night.

The Jersey City show assured Godfrey of offers from one of the big wrestling trusts. Whereas such stars as London, McMillan, Sonnenberg and Don George never have been able to draw more than 1,100 fans at Jersey City, Godfrey's appearance resulted in a sell-out of the 6,000 capacity arena and more than 5,000 fans were turned away.

Godfrey won his match. In fact he won two matches. It wouldn't be good business to have him defeated. The first match went 15 minutes and when Tommy Draak, 220-pound Hollander, found that Godfrey lacked sufficient knowledge of wrestling holds to make the match look interesting he enlisted proceedings by swinging a series of open-handed slaps to the negro's face.

Godfrey retaliated with a right cross to the jaw and Draak sailed over the ropes and into the laps of third row spectators. He claimed foul and refused to continue. The fans wanted more so the promoters produced a second victim, an unknown introduced as Jack Arnold.

Arnold lasted three minutes. The fact that Godfrey's meagre knowledge of wrestling proved sufficient to win without the necessity of using boxing methods gave rise to the suspicion that Arnold may be the multi-named chauffeur.

Wrestling promoters welcome Godfrey's entrance into the game. Just at present both the London-McMillan and George-Sonnenberg circuits need new talent. Fans are tired of the "ring-around-the-rosy" competition and the trust leaders have been seeking a new challenger. If Godfrey lines up with one of the trusts he is virtually certain to be built up to a championship match.

SPORTS KAYOES

By "HAPPY"

Now that Aitkin, Little Falls and Brainerd have each turned in a bad game, and thanks to Old Lady Luck, are still in the totem, the fans may see plenty of good basketball from these teams yet. Crosby-Ironton was in its stride yesterday, and no doubt will continue to play bang-up ball, so anything may happen tonight and tomorrow evening.

Elmer Foster did all his field goal coaching in the overtime periods last evening. That was certainly the time for Elmer to get those field goals out of his system!

This is the first year of basketball for Arnold Peterson of Staples, but he scored more than half of the Staples points last evening. The little blonde fellow scored three pretty field goals in a row last evening to give Staples a rather commanding lead in the third quarter. He was all that Brainerd cared to handle last evening and we hate to think of the worry he is going to cause Brainerd players in years to come as he improves with experience.

We may be wrong, but we think that Aitkin will give Crosby-Ironton plenty to worry about tonight. Coach Hall's boys are capable of a lot better basketball than they played against Pequot yesterday afternoon.

Andrew Wadens center, found the hoop for field goals five times last night, but the other boys just didn't seem to connect. Olin, who usually drops several in from long range, just had some hard luck.

Pine River did its "darndest" yesterday afternoon and it was almost enough to upset Little Falls. The Pine River center, Christensen, although not a polished floor man, used his height to good advantage and dropped in five field goals. Like several other men who showed up well yesterday, Christensen is playing his first year of basketball, and may turn into an exceptionally fine player.

PHILADELPHIAN EXPECTED TO MAKE GREATEST FIGHT OF HIS CAREER AT NEW YORK

By L. S. CAMERON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, March 13.—(UP)—With a return bout against Jack Sharkey providing an added incentive for victory, Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia is expected to make the greatest fight of his career in his 10-round bout with Ernie Schaaf at Boston at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Loughran has had a difficult struggle up the conebag trail since his four round knockout by Sharkey in September, 1929, and is at the peak of condition for the final hurdle.

Schaaf is Sharkey's portage and Sharkey has promised that he will meet Loughran at New York this summer if the Philadelphian gets past Schaaf tonight.

Sharkey's announcement transformed the Loughran-Schaaf contest from an apparently unimportant event into a possible semi-final in the New York commission's heavyweight title series. The New York commission previously has suspended Max Schmeling, who was given the title by commission vote, Young Stribling, Primo Carnera, Mickey Walker and most of the other ranking contenders and is on record as ready to recognize the winner of a bout between Sharkey and a worthy contender as the world's champion.

Loughran is confident that he can defeat both Schaaf and Sharkey and become a rival champion to the Stribling-Schmeling survivor.

"A lucky punch put me out of the race when I met Sharkey," said

Loughran. "That won't happen again and I'll wind up my career as heavyweight champion."

"Sure, Schaaf was given two decisions over me. Personally I don't think he deserved them and I'll prove it tonight. I'm in the best condition of my life and intend to win so decisively tonight that a decision won't be needed."

Betting men have made Loughran a 6 to 5 favorite to defeat Schaaf. Loughran made a great showing in kicking Max Baer here a few weeks ago and looked a fair match for any heavyweight in the business.

Schaaf, however, will be a more difficult opponent than Baer. The Bostonian shoots a wicked left hook and is a much better boxer than the California youngster. In addition he can take punishment like a stevedore and has the confidence gained through two previous victories over Loughran. Jack Sharkey will be in Schaaf's campaign. Sharkey has no great love for Tommy and will use all of his ring wisdom in an attempt to have his manager give Loughran a shellacking.

GYM CLASSES AT UNIVERSITY IN BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT

All the gym classes in the University of Minnesota are playing a tournament for basketball championship. On Wednesday evening they won, 27 to 6, and Hoffbauer chalked up nine baskets.

Washington, March 13.—(UP)—The government has loaned $12,000,000 from the drought relief fund to needy farmers. Secretary of Agriculture Hyde announced today upon leaving the cabinet meeting at the White House.

St. Paul, March 13.—(UP)—Thor E. Ostensoe, an attorney of Canby, Minn., was disbarred today by the state supreme court.

The court upheld findings of Judge John W. Boerner of Ramsey county district court, who acted as referee in the case.

Ostensoe was charged with compounding a felony in accepting a bribe to delay a legal action in which he was interested as attorney.

Dayton, O., March 13.—(UP)—A one-pound cannon exploded accidentally today during a class in military instruction at Dayton University here and the shell ripped into the editorial rooms of the university newspaper which it exploded, causing considerable damage.

The rooms were not occupied at the time. Tom Medley, university football star and member of the military class, was astraddle the gun when it was fired. He was thrown to the ground but escaped serious injury.

Lincoln Inn, in London, is one of the four great guilds or societies of lawyers in England known as "Inns of court," which enjoy the exclusive power of calling persons to the bar. It derives its name from the fact that the groups of buildings in London occupied by it belonged to the earl of Lincoln in the reign of Edward II. It became an inn of court soon after his death, in 1310.

Speed Is Their Forte

By HARDIN BURNLEY

MAJOR HENRY SEAGRAVE, world's motor-boat speed champion, lost his life on June 13, last, when his Miss England II was wrecked on its third trial right after he'd made the record average of 98.76 miles an hour on the first two. He had his 4,000 horsepower engine hitting on everything when the boat struck some submerged obstacle (probably a tree stump) while speeding at the almost incredible rate of 119 miles an hour. That collision, of course, ripped a huge hole in the hull, upset the craft, killed a mechanic outright, mortally injured Major Seagrave, and only his engi-

Wood is scheduled to try for the world's record off Florida in his Miss America X. His highest official speed thus far has been 93.123 m. p. h. Negotiations are already on for him to make like record drives during the British Empire Exhibit at Buenos Aires. It is also hoped that Kaye Don will star at that great fair with Miss

Vogue For Canape Grows

Appetizing Newcomer on Party Food List Is Boon to Hostess

THE canape is one of the newcomers on the party food list
but it is already extremely popular and very chic. It is attractive in appearance and appetizing in flavor, and it has made entertaining
much easier. To the smart hostess
it is as necessary as the after-dinner bowl of fruit.

For tea or for evening refreshments there is nothing smarter than a tray of canapes of various shapes and garnishes. For a first course at lunch or dinner a canape
is again correct, and convenient; it can be arranged and placed before the guests arrive.

For a first course a fruit canape is sometimes chosen. A ring of sliced bananas is arranged around the edge of a round of bread which has been spread with cream cheese.
In the center are heaped minced dates mixed with mayonnaise. The canape is placed on a lettuce leaf
with mayonnaise as a garnish.
Sometimes a slice of pineapple is used instead of the bread.

For canapes which are to be

OH THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD

Copyright 1931, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

A girl of twenty-five wants to marry a man of forty-five and she asks if it really makes such a lot of difference that her husband will be at middle age when she is just starting up hill.
It's not the first time the question has been asked, and usually it's the girl who asks it. Men leap in and land where they may. Better pampers I suppose.

I've always had a sneaking notion that a difference in ages doesn't matter so much as a difference in spirit.
If a girl of twenty-five has an old spirit, a man of forty-five might be a little too young for her. If she is young and the man is old-spirited, it would make a whale of a lot of difference. As they are both happy and ag-less, as so many people are, what possible difference can it make?

I hear these arguments constantly, and older women who wish that they might get the man who wants to marry some young girl, protest that it's a shame. I don't think there's any shame about it. I wouldn't want to marry an old cross fidget if I were 50 years young. I'd go and find me a girl with a spirit more attuned to mine.

I've known such very young people of 60 and such very old people of 25, that I may be pardoned for having such ideas.

I had dinner in New York with a married couple, the girl twenty-five, the man forty-five, and it would have been a shame if they hadn't found each other. The man is smart and well and very young, and he would be bored sick with a wife of 45, who thought she'd passed her girlhood and should settle—what ever that is.
There aren't as many of those people today as there used to be, but there are still too many of them. They count years only. Too many years make a little difference, but you can't blame men of middle age for not picking out mid-victorian wives. If they, themselves, have kept step with the world and are on their toes dancing
the twentieth-century two step.

What difference does it make what "people say"? Relatives have enough troubles of their own, it would be well if they attended to them. Friends want you to be happy so they don't get so critical. Bystanders don't matter at all—let them howl.

I think it's a lot safer for a young woman to marry a middle aged man than for a young man to marry a woman who is too old. Perhaps it's because I like to see men appreciate and take care of wives, and older men have usually learned some early lessons that help them to do this perfectly. Young men are too likely to feel hampered by the care they would receive, prompted by the motherly instincts of women who are twice their age. If a woman has no children she mother's a young man too much.

Somehow, young men don't care for mothering. That's the thing that irks them in that kind of marriage and it's difficult for an older, motherly woman to act coy. She isn't attractive when she tries.

All women young or old, want appreciation. Older men are so much more capable of giving this than the whippersnappers, who haven't learned about women. Older men picking wives, usually know what they want.
Having such a man is somewhat better than trying to make a young one understand that the world is not full of women as good or better than the one he got.

WHAT MAKES PEOPLE MOODY?

Did you know that our health and our moods are closely related to intestinal cleanliness?

When the system is clogged by constipation, poisons are generated. Often these bring on headaches and listlessness. You feel blue, or become irritable.

The poisons of constipation frequently aggravate nervous troubles, rheumatism, high blood-pressure and heart trouble.

Yet constipation can be overcome by eating a delicious
cereal: Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.
Two tablespoonfuls daily are guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation.

Try it with milk or cream.
Use in cooking too. Recipes on the red-and-green package. ALL-BRAN also supplies iron for the blood. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Vogue For Canape Grows

Appetizing Newcomer on Party Food List Is Boon to Hostess

comers on the party food list
but it is already extremely popular and very chic. It is attractive in appearance and appetizing in flavor, and it has made entertaining
much easier. To the smart hostess
it is as necessary as the after-dinner bowl of fruit.

For tea or for evening refreshments there is nothing smarter
than a tray of canapes of various shapes and garnishes. For a first
course at lunch or dinner a canape
is again correct, and convenient; it can be arranged and placed before
the guests arrive.

For a first course a fruit canape is sometimes chosen. A ring of sliced bananas is arranged around
the edge of a round of bread which has been spread with cream cheese.
In the center are heaped minced
dates mixed with mayonnaise. The
canape is placed on a lettuce leaf
with mayonnaise as a garnish.
Sometimes a slice of pineapple is
used instead of the bread.

For canapes which are to be eaten with the fingers either bread plain or toasted on one side is used.
It is usually spread with a flavored butter—anchovy paste, deviled ham, horseradish, mustard or cheese are among the savory materials which mix well with butter.
Colorful garnishes are then made from combinations of pimientos,
green pepper, ripe and green olives, egg yolks and whites. Tiny pickled onions and capers can also be used.
All kinds of interesting effects are possible by varying the arrangements of these garnishes. Your tray of canapes can be a really lovely picture, and they will taste just as good as they look.

The town meeting was a very quiet affair, really too quiet to be interesting. Why not put up at least two candidates for each office and get a little fun out of it. One person is about the same as another after he is elected. If the weed question is not taken more seriously the weeds will have it for by the looks of the fields near here quack grass is king.

Mrs. Dullum was calling on Mrs. John and Mrs. Andrew Shuffelen recently.

Most of the children are in school again having recovered from the flu.

"FOREST LOVE" by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

After giving up Mat Tully because he is poor, Nancy Hollenbeck encourages the attentions of Jack Beamer, wealthy sportsman. Jack plans to divorce his wife and marry Nancy. On a mountain trip, Nancy falls in love with Roger Deatur, handsome ranger. She leaves her chaperones, the wealthy Porters, and secretly marries Roger. Nancy is happy with Roger in his rough mountain cabin, but when he leaves on a trip, the loneliness is unbearable and she returns home. She continues to keep her marriage a secret. Jack Beamer sends flowers. Nancy and her sister, Lou, attend the engagement party of May Belle Craig. Nancy longs for Roger. Beamer arrives and monopolizes her. Mat Tully also attends the party.

Thinking of Roger, Her Mind Picturing Him as She First Whispered "I do love you!"

CHAPTER XXVII.
"Mon, Mat, you've got a beautiful voice!" someone invited, but who can join a chorus of maudlin songsters, cold-sober and fresh from a long, hard ride?

He was turning away, a little disconsolately, when a familiar voice cried, "Why, Mat Tully, where did YOU come from?"

It was the oldest Hollenbeck girl, coming toward him with both hands outstretched, welcoming him as if she were really glad to see him, as if it mattered whether he came or not.

Transparent
"Hello, Lou!" He had never called her that before. Her color deepened. For a moment she looked almost as lovely as her pretty sister. "Gee, it's good to see you? Where's Nancy?"

"Out on the river with the others. Want to go look for her?"
Lou tried to answer gayly, nonchalantly, as Nancy would. But she didn't manage it very well. She heard her own voice, too eager, too tense. The old self-consciousness came rushing back, her throat felt tight. "I have this dance with someone—"

She looked around brightly, nervously. . . how COULD she have given herself away like that? Rushing up to him like a chattering school girl! Let him go look for Nancy!

What did she care? Helen Hefinger was out there waiting for him, too, looking almost handsome in her crimson velvet. . . why keep her waiting?

Mat smiled. A peculiar expression flitted swiftly across his dark, mobile features.
"You have this dance with me. But we're not going to dance it. We're going to forage for something to eat instead. Nancy won't miss us," he added, laughing.

With Mat, looking like Robin Hood at a party, by her side, Louise led the way to the dining room where salads and funny heart-shaped sandwiches were laid out on long tables. She walked on air. Her gilt slippers—home gilded—seemed not to touch the ground at all.

"Nancy won't miss us!" Mat had said.
At the moment that he said it, Nancy Hollenbeck, in a canoe with Jack Beamer, would have given anything she possessed to see them. To see anybody. To get away. To be safe, on shore.

"What do you want to do, capsize this canoe?" Jack Beamer demanded in genuine panic.
"That's just what I was going to ask you," Nancy returned with spirit.

"My Heavens, girl, you ought to know better than to wiggle like that in a canoe! Good job we didn't go overboard."

Nancy, the first panic over, giggled. "I wouldn't mind for myself, but it would be tough on Grandmother Peebles and Aunt Ellie!"

"On WH-AT?"
"On Grandmother Peebles and Aunt Ellie. I'm made out of the defunct Grandma Peebles' best silk petticoat and Aunt Ellie's parasol. I borrowed it from her—she's still alive, drat her—for the lace and I have to sew it all on again. Isn't that awful?"

He didn't laugh. He paddled softly for the island where a gently sloping natural beach made an ideal landing. "It makes me sick to hear you talk about living like that. . . You, who ought to have everything. Clothes from Paquin—"

"Is that where your wife gets hers?"
Embarrassing Situation
"Yes, Anita has the best," he said easily. And then, after a little pause, "Was it because of Anita that you acted like a little fool when I wanted to kiss you?"

Nancy winced in the darkness. "I told you not to," she said evasively.

"But Heavens, girl, I didn't think you meant it! What's a kiss? Haven't we?"
"Jack—please—" she begged.

"I asked you not to talk any more about—"

"Look here, Nancy, I don't understand you. Back came his arm again. "Don't you like me any more?"

She made another movement to free herself. "Of course. Don't be silly."

"Nancy, someone has been talking to you. You've been listening to what some darn gossip has had to say. I'm disappointed in you. I thought that you—"

"No, not it isn't that. I don't care what people say. I don't really. But it's just as I said in my letter. You're married, and I—I don't want to break up—to—to!"

She floundered for the right word. She couldn't talk about breaking up his home when all the world knew he had none. Oh, to be out of this mess! To be free from him. . . from Roger. . . from everybody. . . Just to be herself again, Nancy Hollenbeck. . . to begin again. . . differently. . .

Her chin quivered, she looked longingly toward the shore. But she couldn't get away, she was in a canoe with Jack Beamer. The swift current was sweeping them down stream. The dark water swirled about them. Even the sky was dark. Clouds had covered the moon.

He took her cold hands in his. "I'm not going to force myself on you, dear. I've never done that with any woman." He grinned in the dark—he'd never had to. "But I'm going on with my plans. I'll be free in January—February anyway—"

"Please, Jack—not on my account—please—"

"Can I stop loving you because you tell me to?"
She wept then. Thinking of Roger, her mind picturing him as she first whispered, "I do love you!" Roger, whom she couldn't stop loving, even when she wanted to. Stop, it's no use! I'm married—it's too late! she wanted to scream, but something. . . caution, fear, she didn't know what, kept her from it. She couldn't tell him.

"Please take me back," she said instead. "My head aches so, and I'm so unhappy. Forgive me, I—I've made an awful mess of everything—"

Whistling thoughtfully, he paddled back to shore.
"Good-by, Jack!" she said shakily, at the landing.
"Good-by?" he asked, smiling.

"Yes—please, I'd much rather have it that way. You mustn't think of me any more—"

Persistence
He laughed then. Looked down into her lovely weebegone face with ill-concealed desire.
"Try and stop me. You're going to belong to me, Nancy Hollenbeck. You're going to be the second Mrs. Beamer, and DON'T YOU FORGET IT!"

The crowd was beginning to thin out. Motors were humming. "Good-by—good-by—we've had a wonderful time!"

The elder Neals had long since left. The elder Craigs, tired and happy, were trying to stifle almost overpowering yawns. Oscar and the new butler were ministering to six of the fallen in an improvised dormitory in the basement billiard room. "Be sure there's enough gin, daddy!" May Belle had insisted. There had been more than enough. May Belle herself was a bit unsteady, and the happy bridegroom-to-be wandered from friend to friend with the glad tidings that he was perfectly sober, "spite of the big, happy 'casion' here!"

"Well, thank God, that's over!" May Belle sighed when they had speeded the last departing guest, and Gil had been persuaded to go upstairs.

Mrs. H. H. Weeks, Detroit Lakes, said the referendum would not help the situation at all.
Representative W. J. Norton, Minneapolis, said the referendum would create "a bad precedent since it would pave the way for contentions that the existing system is wrong and that the only way to get the correct expression of the people would be this kind of thing." He called the measure a "monstrous" and said it would become a "farce" if enacted. He charged any referendum would be unfair since the wets would attempt to jack the polls.
Representative Ray Quinlivan, St. Cloud, one of the co-sponsors of the referendum measure, said Norton was attempting to have the opposition arguments branded as "untrue." Quinlivan said "many good people" are against prohibition and asked for a "fair and honest vote on prohibition."

"FOREST LOVE" by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

After giving up Mat Tully because he is poor, Nancy Hollenbeck encourages the attentions of Jack Beamer, wealthy sportsman. Jack plans to divorce his wife and marry Nancy. On a mountain trip, Jack Beamer sends flowers to Roger Decatur, handsome ranger. She leaves her chaperones, the wealthy Porters, and secretly marries Roger. Nancy is happy with Roger in his rough mountain cabin, but when he leaves on a trip, the loneliness is unbearable and she returns home. She continues to keep her marriage a secret. Jack Beamer sends flowers. Nancy and her sister, Lou, attend the engagement party of May Belle Craig. Nancy longs for Roger. Beamer arrives and monopolizes her. Mat Tully also attends the party.

CHAPTER XXVII.

"Mon, Mat, you've got a beautiful voice!" someone invited, but who can join a chorus of maudlin songsters, cold-sober and fresh from a long, hard ride?

He was turning away, a little disconsolately, when a familiar voice cried, "Why, Mat Tully, where did YOU come from?" It was the oldest Hollenbeck girl, coming toward him with both hands outstretched, welcoming him as if she were really glad to see him, as if it mattered whether he came or not.

Transparent

"Hello, Lou!" He had never called her that before. Her color deepened. For a moment she looked almost as lovely as her pretty sister. "Gee, it's good to see you? Where's Nancy?"

"Out on the river with the others. Want to go look for her?" Lou tried to answer gayly, nonchalantly, as Nancy would. But she didn't manage it very well. She heard her own voice, too eager, too tense. The old self-consciousness came rushing back, her throat felt tight. "I have this dance with someone—" She looked around brightly, nervously. . . how COULD she have given herself away like that? Rushing up to him like a chattering school girl! Let him go look for Nancy! What did she care? Helen Helfinger was out there waiting for him, too, looking almost handsome in her crimson velvet. . . why keep her waiting?

Mat smiled. A peculiar expression flitted swiftly across his dark, mobile features.

"You have this dance with me. But we're not going to dance it. We're going to forage for something to eat instead. Nancy won't miss us," he added, laughing.

With Mat looking like Robin Hood at a party, by her side, Louise led the way to the dining room where salads and funny heart-shaped sandwiches were laid out on long tables. She walked on air. Her gilt slippers—home gilded—seemed not to touch the ground at all.

"Nancy won't miss us!" Mat had said.

At the moment that he said it, Nancy Hollenbeck, in a canoe with Jack Beamer, would have given anything she possessed to see them. To see anybody. To get away. To be safe, on shore.

"What do you want to do, capsize this canoe?" Jack Beamer demanded in genuine panic.

"That's just what I was going to ask you," Nancy returned with spirit.

"My Heavens, girl, you ought to know better than to wiggle like that in a canoe! Good job we didn't go overboard."

Nancy, the first panic over, giggled. "I wouldn't mind for myself, but it would be a shame for you."

Thinking of Roger, Her Mind-Picturing Him as She First Whispered "I do love you!"

but it would be tough on Grandmother Peabees and Aunt Ellie!"

"On WH-AT?"

"On Grandmother Peabees and Aunt Ellie. I'm made out of the defunct Grandma Peabees' best silk petticoat and Aunt Ellie's parasol. I borrowed it from her—she's still alive, drat her—for the lace and I have to sew it all on again. Isn't that awful?"

He didn't laugh. He paddled softly for the island where a gently sloping natural beach made an ideal landing. "It makes me sick to hear you talk about living like that. . . You, who ought to have everything. Clothes from Paris—"

"Is that where your wife gets hers?"

Embarrassing Situation

"Yes, Anita has the best," he said easily. And then, after a little pause. "Was it because of Anita that you acted like a little fool when I wanted to kiss you?"

Nancy winced in the darkness. "I told you not to," she said evasively.

"But Heavens, girl, I didn't think you meant it! What's a kiss? Haven't we—"

"Jack—please—" she begged. "I asked you not to talk any more about—"

"Look here, Nancy, I don't understand you." Back came his arm again. "Don't you like me any more?"

"Nancy, someone has been talking to you. You've been listening to what some darn gossip has said to say. I'm disappointed in you. I thought that you—"

"No, not I! It isn't that. I don't care what people say. I don't really. But it's just as I said in my letter. You're married, and I—I don't want to break up—to—to—"

She floundered for the right word. She couldn't talk about breaking up his home when all the world knew he had none. Oh, to be out of this mess! To be free from him. . . from Roger. . . from everybody. . . Just to be herself again, Nancy Hollenbeck. . . to begin again. . . differently. . .

Her chin quivered, she looked longingly toward the shore. But she couldn't get away, she was in a canoe with Jack Beamer. The swift current was sweeping them down stream. The dark water swirled about them. Even the sky was dark. Clouds had covered the moon.

He took her cold hands in his. "I'm not going to force myself

on you, dear. I've never done that with any woman." He grinned in the dark—he'd never had to. "But I'm going on with my plans. I'll be free in January—February anyway—"

"Please, Jack—not on my account—please—"

"Can I stop loving you because you tell me to?"

"She wept then. Thinking of Roger, her mind picturing him as she first whispered, 'I do love you!' Roger, whom she couldn't stop loving, even when she wanted to. Stop, it's no use! I'm married—It's too late! she wanted to scream, but something. . . caution, fear, she didn't know what, kept her from it. She couldn't tell him.

"Please take me back," she said instead. "My head aches so, and I'm so unhappy. Forgive me, I've made an awful mess of everything—"

Whistling thoughtfully, he paddled back to shore.

"Good-by, Jack!" she said shakily, at the landing.

"Good-by!" he asked, smiling.

"Yes—please, I'd much rather have it that way. You mustn't think of me any more—"

Persistence

He laughed then. Looked down into her lovely, woe-begone face with ill-concealed desire.

"Try and stop me. You're going to belong to me, Nancy Hollenbeck. You're going to be the second Mrs. Beamer, and DON'T YOU FORGET IT!"

The crowd was beginning to thin out. Motors were humming. "Good-by—good-by—we've had a wonderful time!"

The elder Neals had long since left. The elder Craigs, tired and happy, were trying to stifle almost overpowering yawns. Oscar and the new butler were ministering to six of the fallen in an improvised dormitory in the basement billiard room. "Be sure there's enough gin, daddy!" May Belle had insisted. There had been more than enough. May Belle herself was a bit uneasy, and the happy bridegroom-to-be was dreading from friend to friend with the glad tidings that he was perky sober, 'spite of the hic, happy 'casion, hic!

"Well, thank God, that's over!" May Belle sighed when they had speeded the last departing guest, and Gil had been persuaded to go upstairs.

Grove, said that the referendum meant "absolutely nothing," that it was not mandatory and that it would not help the situation.

J. Adam Bede, Duluth, one of the co-sponsors of the measure, said that if the legislators wanted action from congress on prohibition they would have a long wait. Bede said he wanted to know what the voters think of "a situation that causes ten million homes to break the law."

Mrs. H. H. Weeks, Detroit Lakes, said the referendum would not help the situation at all.

Representative W. J. Norton, Minneapolis, said the referendum would create "a bad precedent since it would pave the way for contentions that the existing system is wrong and that the only way to get the correct expression of the people would be this kind of thing." He called the measure a "monstrosity" and said it would become a "farce" if enacted. He charged any referendum would be unfair since the wets would attempt to pack the polls.

Representative Ray Quinlivan, St. Cloud, one of the co-sponsors of the referendum measure, said Norton was attempting to have the opposition arguments branded as "untrue." Quinlivan said "many good people" are against prohibition and asked for a "fair and honest vote on prohibition."
